Diverse Opportunities

The Ralston Police Department currently has a K-9 Unit, members on the South Metro SWAT Team, bike patrol, investigations, School Resource Officer, and patrol.

The department also is involved in many task forces and joint training and investigations.

We strive to ensure that we encourage growth within officers through training and education. We support and encourage officers who desire to pursue a specialized area within the various disciplines within the department. This growth may come from advanced accident investigations, interrogation/interview techniques, basic and advanced Spanish for law enforcement officers, just to provide a few examples.

We continuously strive to ensure we have the best in-house instructors in various areas of critical training. We provide opportunities for motivated officers to become Firearms Instructors, Defensive Tactics Instructors, Emergency Vehicle Operations Instructors, Field Training Officers, just to name a few.

As a smaller department in the metro area, your opportunities to develop and grow are limited only by your motivation and desire.

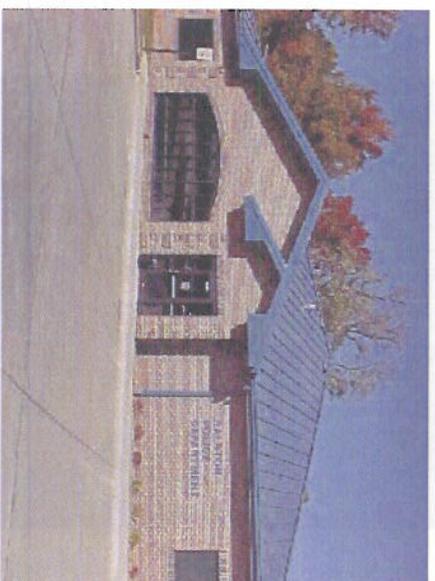

Compensation

The Ralston Police Department offers a competitive salary and benefit package. The department offers an attractive starting salary. The merit increases are generous and an officer can reach top salary in less than seven years. Starting salary is between $39,000-$42,000. In addition, officers are provided health insurance, offered deferred compensation investment options, vacation, sick leave, family sick leave, tuition assistance, plus much more.

The department reserves the right to utilize its lateral transfer option at any time. This allows already certified officers, whether currently with an agency or not, to transfer to our department with minimal initial testing and being preferred over non-certified officers.
